

Goals of Diabetes

Hyperglycaemia

If I go high, it could be because of eating without taking insulin, lumpy injection or pump sites, not enough insulin with meals, or maybe the pump has stopped working.

Some of the signs of being high are:

- Feeling Thirsty
- Feeling Tired
- Difficulty Concentrating
- Feeling Angry

I know my glucose level is too high, and I need to check my ketones.

Sometimes if I'm high it could be because of a pump failure or a leak in the cannula, so a correction might be needed.

If my levels are too high or if I have ketones then I must tell an adult.
