I use a phone for my diabetes. I can read out the glucose numbers from my sensor.

I can also press the buttons on my insulin pump, but always with adult supervision.

Sensors and cannulas can be put on a few areas of the body, and they need to be rotated.

Sensors can be put here on the body:

- Back of the arms.
- Tummy.
- Top of the buttocks.

And cannulas can be put here on the body:

- Side of the thighs.
- Tummy.
- Top of the buttocks.
- Back of upper arms.

I sometimes help with cannula and sensor changes so that I can understand how to do it.
